

IDFC DYNAMIC BOND FUND

An open ended dynamic debt scheme investing across duration

The fund is positioned in the dynamic bond fund category to take exposure across the curve depending upon the fund manager's underlying interest rate view where we employ the majority of the portfolio. It is a wide structure and conceptually can go anywhere on the curve.

OUTLOOK

- If the factors supporting India's cyclical rebound come to fruition, a lot of macro-economic headaches feared at the beginning of the year will ease. Thus some of the fiscal inflexibilities and associated risks of sovereign rating downgrades will abate, the external account will build even further buffers as capital flows remain strong, and hopefully India's appeal will percolate to global fixed income investors as well.
- Monetary policy will gradually move from the level of emergency level accommodation today to one of still high accommodation. This will likely be a slow process and will involve more discretionary adjustments to the price of liquidity rather than the quantity of it.
- Yield curves will gradually bear flatten. It is very likely that the bulk of this adjustment will be made by the very front end rates. This is not to say that long end rates won't have to adjust. Rather, the quantum of adjustment there may be of a relatively smaller magnitude when compared with rates at the very front end.
- The starting point today is one of a very steep yield curve. Thus unlike in normal times when the yield curve is quite flat, the decision on duration isn't a binary one any more. Rather, one has to examine the steepness of the curve and position at points where the carry adjusted for duration seems to be the most optimal.
- Credit spreads, including on lower rated assets, have compressed meaningfully. These reflect the chase for 'carry' in an environment of abundant liquidity and funds flow, as well as the relatively muted supply of paper as companies have belt tightened and focused on cash generation. As activity resumes over the year ahead, issuances will likely increase thereby pressuring spreads to rise.
